

INTERIOR DESIGN®

JANUARY
2015

BEST of year

SNAPS

1. The 2014 BoY Award, for the first time 3-D printed in nylon.
2. Massive Design vice president Dana Grizwin.
3. MechoShade System creative director Mel Byars.
4. Hall of Fame member Clodagh.
5. Loftwall partner Jeremy Rincon and founder and CEO Steve Kinder.
6. The 1,000-person crowd.

 interiordesign.net/boy14 for more Best of Year Awards coverage.

INTERIOR DESIGN BEST OF YEAR AWARDS

"DESIGN HAS THE ABILITY TO BECOME AN ART FORM"

"THERE IS ALWAYS THE QUESTION OF WHETHER PEOPLE WILL LIKE YOUR PROJECT. THESE AWARDS ARE A WONDERFUL WAY OF HEARING YES!"

"COMPANIES ARE FINALLY REALIZING THE IMPORTANCE OF A WELL THOUGHT-OUT WORKPLACE"

SNAPS

boy oh boy

Devotees of the Best of Year Awards know the drill. One: Report to Gehry Partners's IAC headquarters in New York. Two: Grab a seat to hear Interior Design editor in chief Cindy Allen and president Mark Strauss announce the chosen products and projects. Three: Shriek with excitement or at least applaud loudly. This time, however, there was a difference. Midway through the presentation, Andrew H. Dent, vice president of sister company Material ConneXion, joined Allen to introduce a new category, recognizing innovative materials. It all made for a winning night.

1. Editor in chief Cindy Allen and president Mark Strauss kicking off the awards.
2. Interior Design Hall of Fame member Lee Mindel.
3. Allen with Paola Navone, inducted into the Hall of Fame the night before.
4. Sanjit Manku of Jouin Manku.
5. Designer Caroline Beaupère.
6. Primo Orpilla, principal of Studio O+A.
7. New Hall of Fame member Hagy Belzberg. ➔

SNAPS

1. The 2014 BoY Award, for the first time 3-D printed in nylon.
2. Massive Design vice president Dana Grizwin.
3. MechoShade System creative director Mel Byars.
4. Hall of Fame member Clodagh.
5. Loftwall partner Jeremy Rincon and founder and CEO Steve Kinder.
6. The 1,000-person crowd.

interiordesign.net/boy14 for more Best of Year Awards coverage.

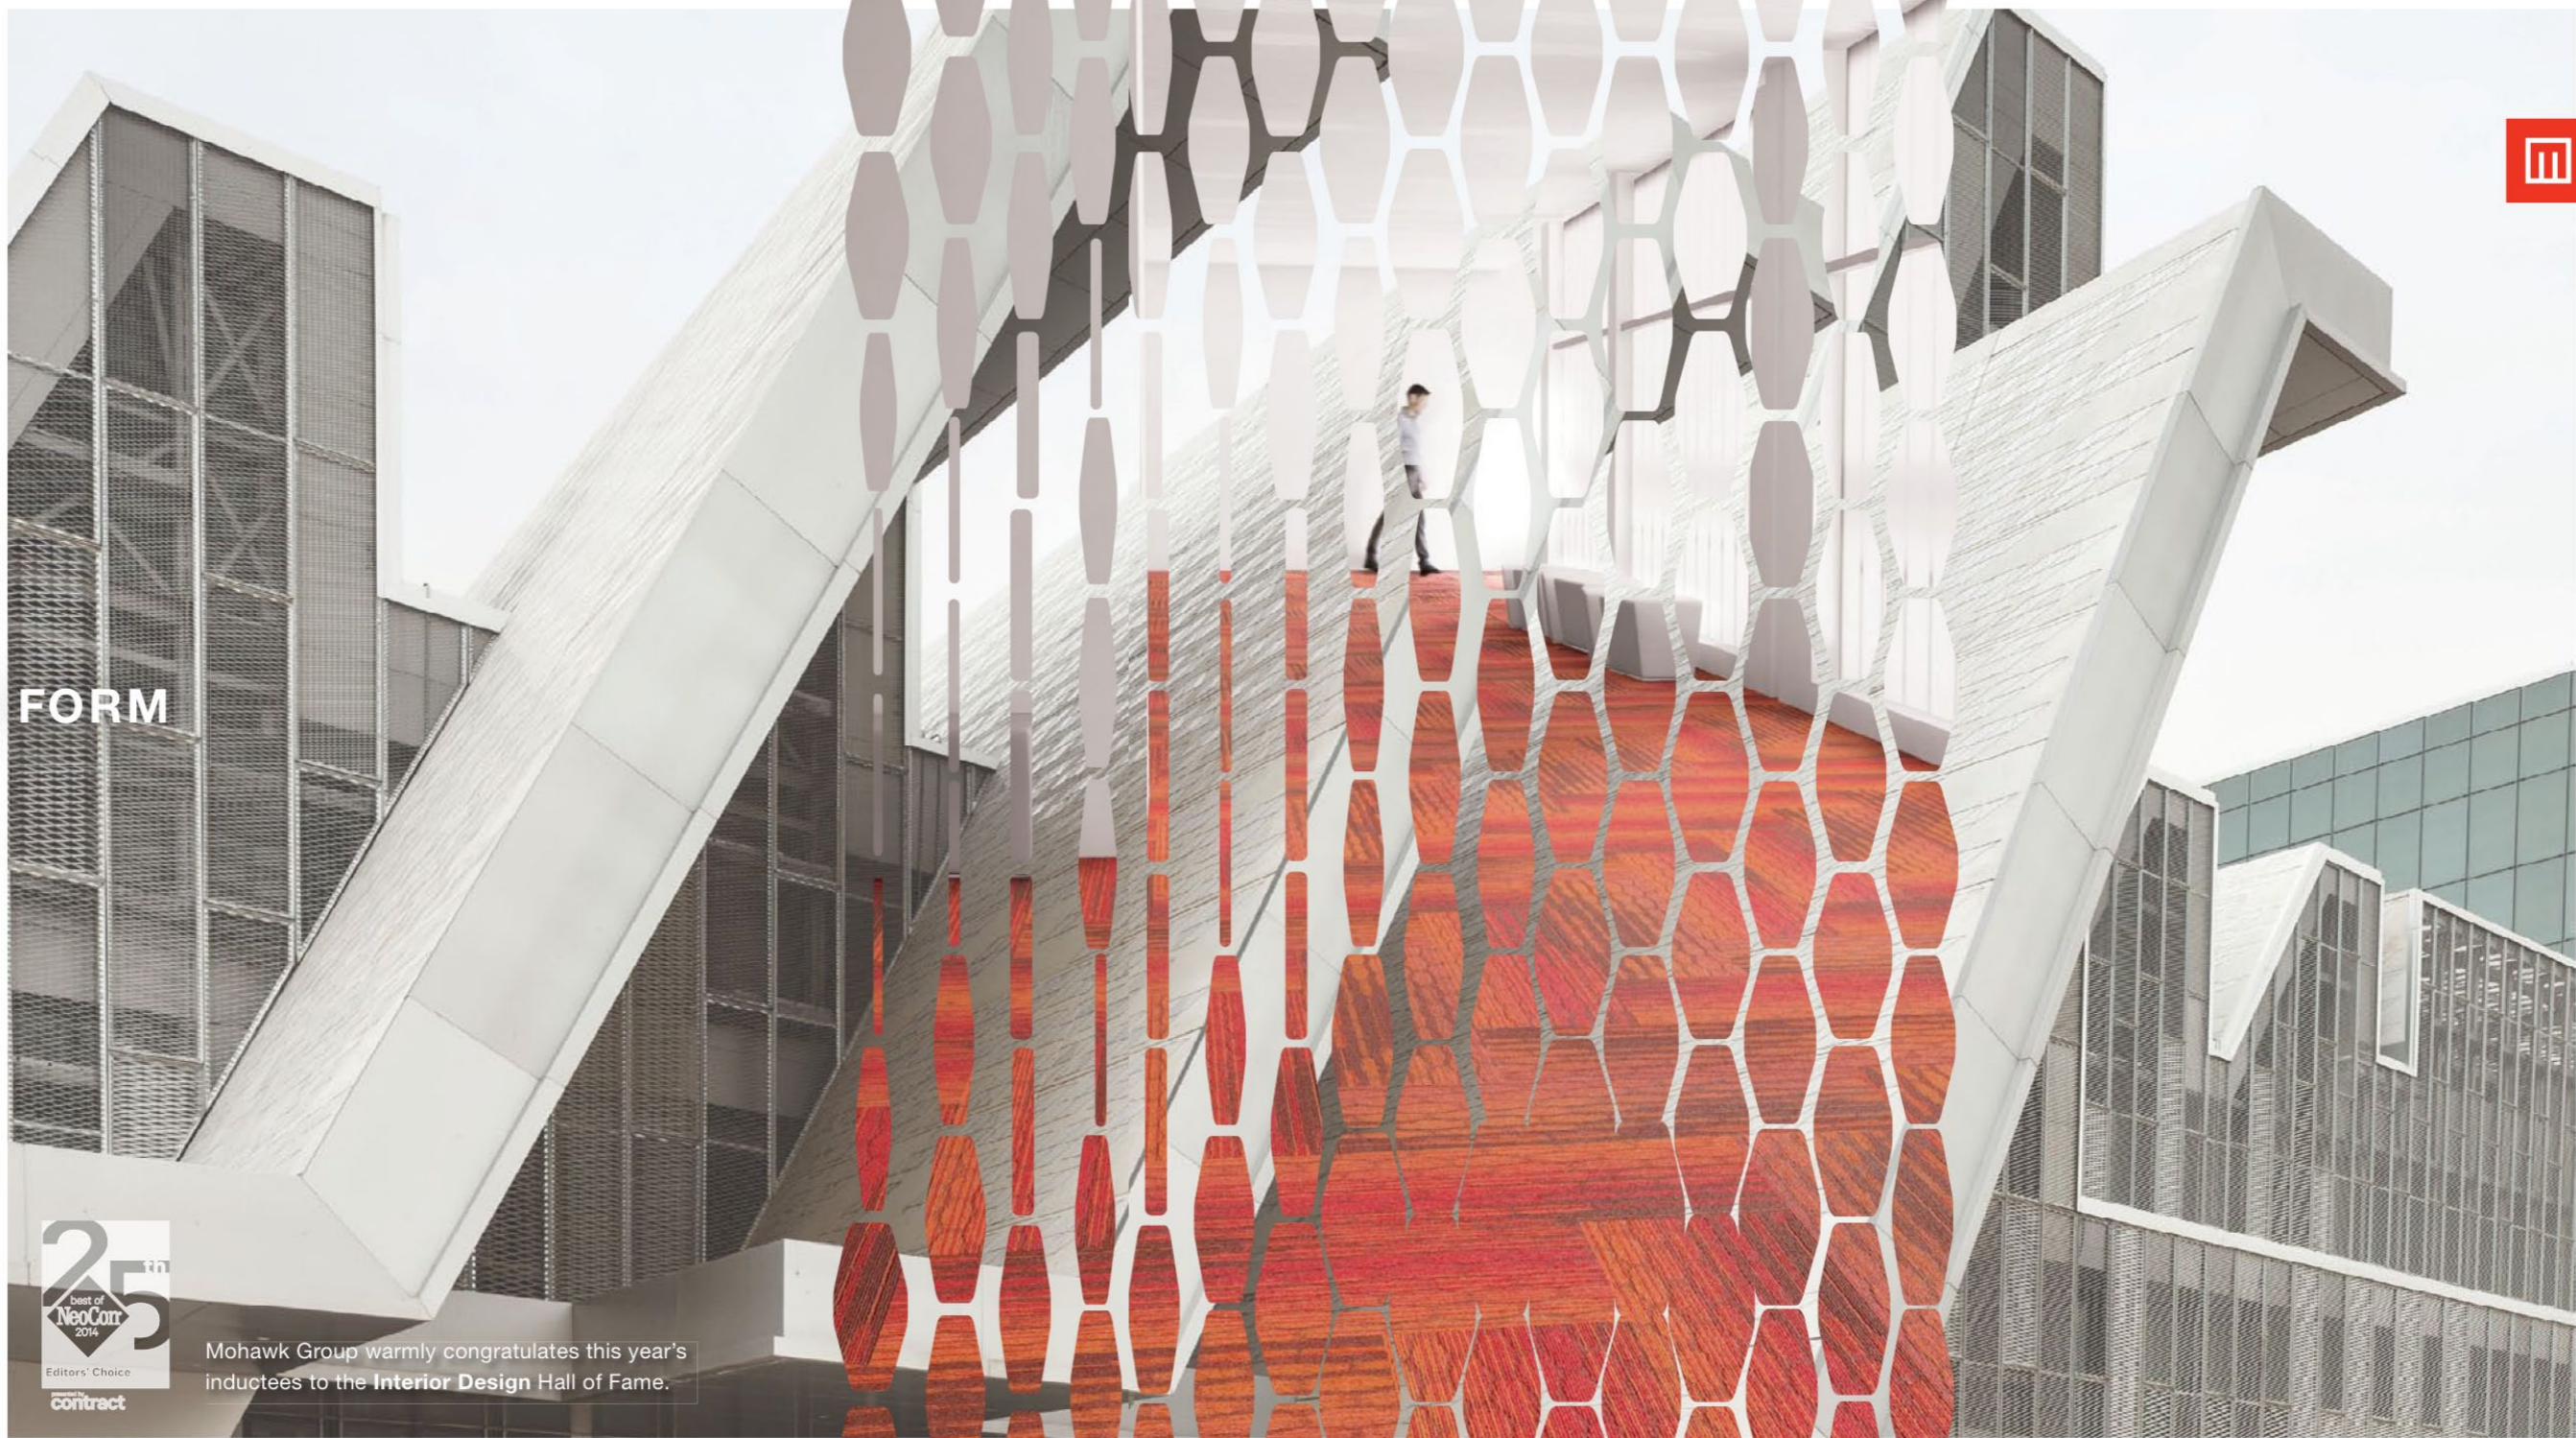

1, 4, 6, 7: KEITH CLAYTOR/TIMEFROZEN PHOTOGRAPHY; 5: ERIK BARDIN/POLARITY

1, 4-6: KEITH CLAYTOR/TIMEFROZEN PHOTOGRAPHY; 2, 3: ERIK BARDIN/POLARITY

BREAKING FORM

Mohawk Group warmly congratulates this year's inductees to the Interior Design Hall of Fame.

Introducing Breaking Form, our new, ultramodern modular carpet collection designed in collaboration with Mac Stopa and featuring our innovative 12BY36 carpet tile construction.

WWW.MOHAWKGROUP.COM

 Mohawk Group