Casali

What a difference a dash of color can make. First introduced in 2011, Daniele Merini's Nastro occasional is a minimalist's dream, made from a single curved piece of extraclear glass. Nevertheless, at this year's Internazionale del Mobile in Milan, the manufacturer enlisted Massive Design founder Mac Stopa to reinvent it. His intervention: dressing the table in organic overlays of colored glass. The transparency of the glass, combined with the overlay's 3-D pattern, creates a spherical effect, suggesting movement as the table is viewed from different angles. But of course Stopa couldn't confine himself to a single table. So as part of his Hybrid collection, straight, sliding, and swing doors also make an appearance. 39-0547-671611; casali.net. circle 454 ➤
